OAA, in partnership with the Ralph Bunche Institute, is pleased to offer a two-part workshop to equip human rights advocates to use newly developed indicators to document and report on the state of freedom of religion or belief (FoRB) in Cuba, for the purpose of strengthening reporting and international advocacy.

Why indicators?

There is a need for human rights advocates to be equipped with specific tools that strengthen our ability to advance evidence-based reporting that can withstand the rigorous scrutiny by the wider human rights community. Human rights indicators are a helpful tool to advance this goal. The use of indicators can help us document information more efficiently, strengthen our communications, and make it easier to monitor and follow up on issues and outcomes of importance to the realization FoRB. More importantly, indicators can be powerful tools for ensuring accountability and transparency in the pursuit of socially valued progress.

The workshop will be held via Zoom on:

Part I: Thursday, July 8, 11:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. EST
Part II: Thursday, July 29, 11:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m. EST

To confirm your participation, or if you have questions, please contact Javier Peña jp@oaausa.org.

To learn more about CUFAN, please visit www.oaausa.org/cufan/.